Pharmacy CM firstline

PHARMACISTS are at the frontline of the dynamic world of complementary medicines (CMs), according to Pharmacy Professor and international expert, Associate Professor Forrest Batz.

Speaking in preliminary discussions around the theme of the 2016 Blackmores Institute Symposium, he said pharmacists are especially critical to translating the complexities of prescription and complementary medicines interactions.

The conference will be held at Sheraton on the Park, Sydney on Sat 13 Aug and has been accredited for 0.75 hours of Group 1 CPD and 5.25 hours of Group 2 CPD (or 11.25 CPD credits) suitable for inclusion in an individual pharmacist's CPD plan.

For registration details go to www.blackmoresinstitute.org.

Australia funds drug action

TWO United Nations initiatives targeting the human toll caused by the global trade in illicit drugs have attracted $200,000 in funding from the Australian government.

Assistant health minister Ken Wyatt announced two separate pledges of $100,000 in New York where he is leading the Australian delegation to the United Nations General Assembly Special Session on the World Drug Problem (UNGASS).

The first $100,000 will go towards the UN's Global SMART (Synthetic Monitoring: Analyses, Reporting and Trade) program which aims to help countries lift their capacity to gather, analyse and report information on synthetic drugs.

SMART currently operates in 11 countries in Asia and Latin America and since 2011 it has highlighted the emergence of new psychoactive substances including crystal methamphetamine (aka 'ice').

The second pledge of $100,000 will go to the UN Office on Drugs & Crime to continue its work on increasing access to opiate-based medicines for patients in severe pain and cases of extreme need.

"While illicit use of drugs is of great concern to UN member states, it is also a matter of great concern to Australia that so many people around the world still have limited or no access to the pain relief provided by narcotic based medicines," Wyatt said.

He cited funding by Australia to Ghana and Timor-Leste for pilot narcotic medicine regulatory regimes, saying they have "shown that it is possible to overcome the complex set of barriers to accessing controlled drugs".

Hand sanitiser probe

NEW Zealand Medicines and Medical Devices Safety Authority (MEDSAFE) is considering tighter controls around the distribution and use of alcohol-based hand sanitisers, according to a report in stuff.co.nz.

With some 673 calls to the Poisons Centre concerning people swallowing alcohol-based hand sanitiser in the past five years, and the majority being children, MEDSAFE has been asked to make it mandatory for hand sanitisers containing more than 20% alcohol to be mounted on walls to reduce the risk to children.

The call came from Auckland man Lance Gravatt, who owns a small pharmaceutical company.

MEDSAFE will consider Gravatt's submission and a second submission of unknown origin at its meeting on 03 May.

DISPENSARY CORNER

ITCHY in bed? Maybe you need to change the colour of your sheets.

That's a suggestion resulting from a report in the Journal of Medical Entomology detailing a study into the colour preference of bed bugs.

The blood-sucking beasts apparently love red and black but are repulsed by yellow and green.

US researchers studied the insects by placing them in dishes along with cardboard "colour shelters" under which they could take cover.

Rather than selecting hiding places at random the beasts strongly preferred hiding under black and red cardboard, with the scientists postulating brighter colours perhaps remind them of brightly lit areas which are less safe to hide in, the BBC reports.

"I always joke with people 'Make sure you get yellow sheets!'" said one of the researchers.

AMBULANCES in Beijing are set to get "taxi-style" meters, amid allegations they have been overcharging patients.

Effective next month they will charge a fixed rate of 50 yuan for patient transport of up to 3km, and then seven yuan for each additional kilometre, according to the Beijing Morning Post.

A callout fee of 50 yuan will be levied in the event an ambulance is called but not needed.

The move is a significant change from the previous arrangement under which paramedics worked out the charges themselves, leading to a number of complaints about high costs.

Some people are not convinced, taking to social media to comment that the move may not be ideal because it may give the drivers an incentive to take the long way to the hospital.
