GP/Pharmacist collab

MEMBERS from United General Practice Australia (UGPA) are advocating for increased collaboration between non-dispensing pharmacists and general practitioners, in bids to better support patient care.

GPs gathered in Sydney last week to discuss the issue, recommending the first step to broader implementation was to trial and "robustly evaluate" the scheme in the Australian context to "Get the model right in order to maximise the potential benefits for patients."

The group said that "the addition of pharmacists in general practise would be designed to make the best use of the skills that the pharmacists can bring to the patient's care".

However, UGPA has rejected the notion that pharmacists should be able to prescribe medication, citing a conflict of interest that the proposal involves.

E-Cigarette for NHS

UK medicines regulator, Public Health England, has approved e-cigarette e-Voke, to be marketed as an aid to help people stop smoking, meaning it could soon be prescribed by the NHS.

Public Health England told BBC that e-cigarettes are far less harmful than tobacco and can help smokers leave the bad habit behind.

However, many experts - including the British Medical Association - warn that the benefits and harms are not yet known since e-cigarettes are still relatively new.

Discount Drug Stores to offer full PBS discount

FOLLOWING suit with Chemist Warehouse's one dollar pledge last month (PD 14 Dec 15); Discount Drug Stores has announced that it too will be passing on the full markdown to consumers on all eligible prescriptions due to recent changes to the Pharmaceutical Benefits Scheme (PBS).

However, Discount Drug Stores executive general manager Doug Kuskopf-Dallas says though they are offering the discount to benefit consumers, he is still encouraging the public to consider their own circumstances as taking the discount could actually disadvantage some.

"That's why Discount Drug Stores is taking a more tailored approach and encouraging customers to speak with their pharmacist to discuss their options.

"It's about empowering our customers so they can make informed decisions about what's best for their situation."

Combatting the Government's decision to de-list many over-the-counter medications such as Panadol Osteo and Panamax from the PBS Scheme, Kuskopf-Dallas said Discount Drug Store pharmacies have priced their over-the-counter medications better than ever to offset the impact.

"Through our competitive pricing and by passing on the full one dollar discount, Discount Drug Stores will be able to alleviate costs for the most vulnerable in the community," he added.

MEANWHILE North Queensland's largest independent pharmacy group, Calanna Pharmacy, is warning that GlaxoSmithKline's decision to hike up the price of Panadol Osteo by 50% following its removal from the PBS scheme (PD 04 Jan 16), may be the first in a series of surges to hit consumers.

Group general manager Matthew Calanna said Panadol Osteo was used by up to 50% of their patients and the changes were leaving them "significantly out of pocket".

"When a manufacturer doesn't have the certainty of volume from the PBS, there is no doubt they will be evaluating how sustainable their current pricing models are," he said.

"Unfortunately that is not good news for consumers because they are now experiencing a double whammy and this may not be the only price hike we will see."

Federal Health Minister Susan Ley slammed GSK's price increase this week, vowing to take the matter to the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission for investigation.

FDA seizes codeine

INDIA'S Food and Drug Administration (FDA) have seized 15,000 bottles of codeine-containing cough syrups sold at an open market in the Thane District at a higher cost without licensing.

The cough syrups taken included brands such as Resktop by Promed Laboratories, Rancodex by Smilax Healthcare and Conex by Acron Pharmaceuticals.

The raid was carried out based on a tip-off.

GSK Duodart resupply

GLAXOSMITHKLINE has confirmed that wholesalers will have replenished stock of Duodart Capsules (dutasteride 500 µg/tamsulosin hydrochloride 400 µg), the drug used to treat benign hyperplasia in men, commencing 04 January.

The temporary stock-out was due to a third party manufacturer not being able to supply capsules.

GSK are asking Doctors and pharmacists who require additional information to contact its service centre on 1800 033 109.

DISPENSARY CORNER

IF YOU'RE hoping to get some added protein into your diet, would you go as far as to eating grubs or bugs?

UK restaurant 'Grub Kitchen' has started serving up a range of bug-based dishes which includes mealworm panna cotta, wellington filled with crispy grubs and bug bhaji.

Co-owner Dr Sarah Beynon told Sky News that with millions of people around the world already surviving off a diet of bugs, more of us could benefit from trying them.

"The amount of protein in that insect burger, depending on which insects are in there could actually be higher in protein than the same size beef burger," she said.

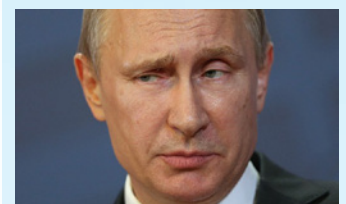

"A beef burger would take about 3,290 litres of water to produce, the equivalent insect burger would take less than a pint."

Grub Kitchen's head chef Andy Holcroft says that "we're not trying to force people to eat bugs...we're just saying to people to really think about their food".

HAVE you ever glanced at pictures of Russian President Vladimir Putin and thought to yourself, "I bet he'd smell lovely?"

Well fantasize no more! Belarussian perfumer, Vladislav Rekunov, has released a brand new fragrance inspired by Russia's head honcho named "Leaders Number One".

The fragrance is sold in a black bottle featuring Putin's profile at luxury department stores in Moscow.
